Tommy" Cast is Rehearsing

The original east of "Tommy," including Sidney Toler, William Janney, Lloyd Neal and Alen Bunce, has reached here from New York and is rehearing for the opening at the President, formerly the Morosco, Thursday night. Gay Seabrook will play the leading feminine role and others in the cast will be Florence Roberts, Marie Reels and Robert Homans.

The opening of the President will gratify Henry Duffy's ambition to possess a downtown theater. It will be operated as the home of wholesome, humorous plays of American life at "sensible prices." This policy prevails at the other theaters operated by Duffy, including the Alcazar and Fresident in San Francisco, El Capitan in Hollywood, the President in Seattle, the Heilig in Portland and the Vancouver in Vancouver, B. C.

"I chose Tommy' as the opening attraction for the President," says the actor-manager, "because I think it one of the best-written and most-amusing plays of recent seasons. I can promise patrons that when they enter the President they will they enter the President they will find a transformed playhouse." STACK'S EXPERIENCE DATES TO "OLD VIC"

Among the "Monna Vanna" principals is William Stack, now playing Prinzivalle in the Trinity Auditorium engagement sponsored by the Opera and Drama Gulld in their community movement.

Stack's stage experience dates back. He was with Sir George Alexander in London productions; the pioneer lead in "Old Vic;" assumed Shakespearean leads with success and was a member of the Eilen Terry and Mary Anderson organizations. He has been with several American dramatic companies of reputation.

"The Soul of Raphael" will open under the same management at the Trinity Auditorium Thursday night.

Arthur F. Smith, lessee of the Figueroa Playhouse, yesterday announced that the matinee Wednesday will be dedicated to the Friday Morning Club. Members will attend the performance of "Excess Baggage" en masse.

The kiddles' matinees, which already have made a hit with theatergoers, will be continued. Another one will be held today, when Marco, the clown, will headline the special features.

"Excess Baggage" will have its final performances at the Figueroa Playhouse May 5.

lead-off man for the Angels, is worth more than passing comment these days. Although the locals hooked him toward the close of the 1927 season, this is his first real year with a Class AA club and he is succeeding remarkably well in a hitting working a pitcher, ordinarily are assigned.

But the hitting figures show that he is well over the .333 mark, and I don't believe there has been a game this season in which he has failed to get a wallop. And for a 200-pounder the big fellow has plenty of speed. He can ramble down to first base about as fast as the next one, and he covers lots of territory in

The peculiar thing about his speed is its deceptiveness. This may be because of his bulging calves and his massive frame. At any rate it was a supposed lack of speed that kept him from making a berth on the allCoast eleven when he was starring on the Oregon Aggie football team his last year in college—1926. His linesmashing ability was recognized, but most of the coaches and other experts ranhed Biff Hofman of Stanford ahead of him because of the latter's accepted superiority afoot. Yet I doubt if Biff would be anywhere at the finish of a 100 or a dash to first base with Wes.

lost his parents early and was reared by his uncle, Judge O'Donnell of Vernon.

But just as Jimmy Murphy was a product of the local tracks, so was Frank Lockhart. He made his first bid as a driver in an old makeshift car of home manufacture at the Ascot track when Bentel and Bill Pickens were running it. But the real remance of his career was written at Indianapolis two years ago when he went East with Harry Milier as a mechanic's helper. Pete Kreis couldn't drive, and there was no one to take his place but young Lockhart. He did and won the classic—a 500-mile race cut to 400 because of the rain.

The passing of these fine boys loug before their prime can't help but bring forth a note of gladness that speedway racing is dying a natural death all over the country. It passed out in this city—long a bulwark—two years ago, and only a few abortive attempts have been made to bring it back. Indianapolis is about the only spot left where it amounts to anything.

Owld Mike McTigne may not be the best fighter in the world, but apparently he's still too smart for the likes of Armand Emanuel. A victory for the latter last Monday would have sent him East on the crest of a big ballyhoo, whereas a draw only indicates that Mike is an interesting guy with his dukes—even at the age of 36. Any man must be who has twice come into the light heavyweight crown during the span of a long fighting career.

Harrowing romances about the lighthouse keeper's daughter are ravidly lesing out, according to Fred Dillon, superintendent of lighthouses at Washington.

"We are building too many modern stations, with every convenience to meet dramatic needs of the authors. Many of our lights are automatic and need no keeper at all," he declared.

Mr. Dillon returned yesterday on the Laszoo liner City of Honolulu after inspecting the light stations and radio beacons and other apparatus of Hawaii. He is now bound back to Washington having completed his tour of all the stations in America and Alaska, which consumed eighteen months.

The stations number many hundreds, many of the most modern of which serve the Pacific Coast some sending out 1,000,000 candle-power each to warn shipping from this station for marry and been the inspiration for marry and been the inspiration for marry mations to do likewise. SHE STILL HOPES HOCK STORE TO FIND HER IDEAL daunted by 150 proposals, more or less, which have not come up to specifications, she still has the heart to believe that there is such a phenomenon and goes blithely on her way in search of him.

But he is not to be found in Galifornia, she said yesterday as she boarded the train for her home in Chicago, so she is going back to have another look around there.

A sparkling diamond on her engagement-ring finger looked rather suspicious and she admitted that is he is engaged to a Chicago man and, presumably, is on her way back to be married.

But, she said wistfully, 'he's not my ideal and I'm not at all sure that I'll marry him when I get there. This is leap year, you see, as maybe while I can, I should go on looking for the ideal I have in mind. Sometimes I think I'd rather have twenty swetchearts, anyway, than to try to died one right husband."

Misc Linter came to Los Angeles last October with her invalid father and they established their residence at 250 South Kemmore avenue. In February Anton Lintz died and left the daughter an estate of approximately $100,000. She has closed his business affairs here, shipped her car to Chicago and will establish her residence at the Edgewood.

Heads of the Association of Hair Dressers and Cosmeticians aver that there is not in all America a woman who is naturally beautiful. It would

CODE OF THE AIR

It is conceded that official regula-tion of air traffic is necessary. The Fed-eral code does fairly well, but all the eral code does fairly well, but all the States have the impulse for regulation of their own. There should be uniformity of thought in this regulation. An aviator may fly over three or four States in a single day and the laws in all of them should match in general terms. The code of the air should be something that any flyer can understand and it should not vary with every boundary line.

WORLD POLICE Again there is an urge for a uniformed international police force under the jurisdiction of the League of Na-tions. It could serve to keep the peace when an emergency arose but the larger thought is that such an organization could serve as a clearinghouse in the correction of international crime. There re a lot of sharpers who do their work y flitting from flag to flag and it might be well to provide a competent espion-age for these birds of prey. Might as well load the League up with it. TUNNEY ON SHAKESPEARE

Who says this is not a progressive age? Here we have Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion puglist of the world, holding forth in erudite terms to world, holding forth in erudite terms to a Yale class on Shakespeare. In his ad-dress Tunney admits that his introduc-tion to the Bard of Avon was somewhat prosaic, being the result of the talk of a doughboy in France. That introduc-tion was not particularly easy. Gene first took up "A Winter's Tale," one of

CITY BUDGET METHODS

City departments have requested a total of $34,090,681 to spend during the fiscal year 1928-29, which exceeds by $9,000,000 the total of the city's estimated income for that year. This amount will have to be trimmed out before June 1, when the budget is to be submitted to the City Council for aproval. It is evident that the usual cus submitted to the City Council for approval. It is evident that the usual custom of departments asking for a great deal more than they need, in the hope that what they get actually will meet their real requirements, has been followed in the present instance.

One item exceeding $2,000,000 included in the budget requests is already automatically out—that for a new police headquarters building. But the Mayor and the budget director will have to prune down the requests by about $7,000,000—a task that would be rendered much easier had the requests not been thus arbitrarily expanded.

It would be unfair to single out any city department and accuse it of exaggerating its requirements in order to be assured of its bare needs, because the practice is common to all, or nearly all. With no special criticism intended, the controlled as an example. Its budget

With no special criticism intended, the color Department may, however, be mentioned as an example. Its budget request includes a demand for 700 additional policemen, upon the plea that the city is underpoliced. There is doubtless truth in this, but the case is not proved by the comparison given that the city has only five policemer to each square mile while most cities have twenty to the square mile. In the area of Los Angeles, as everyone knows, are great tracts of agricultural land and a section of mountain range which need little policing now and are not likely to need much in the near future. The Police Commission merely makes itself absurd

Bad laws, if they exist, should be repealed as soon as possible; still, while they continue in force, for the sake of example they should be religiously observed.

There is some question if the traffic division ought not to be separated entirely from the police department, and this work given to a special department under the general direction of a Commissioner of Public Safety. The traffic offerent from police work, which is in essence the protection of life and property, but he deals mainly not with criminals, but with ordinary citizens. It is a different function of government that is placed with ordinary citizens. It is a different function of government that is placed in his charge. On the other hand, the traffic division does place at the com-mand of the Chief of Police a reserve of officers who can be drawn upon in case of great emergency; and several notable captures of bandits have been made by traffic officers. The separation would have the advantage of not burdening the police department budget with ofthe police department budget with of-ficers not ordinarily engaged in or ordinarily available for the pursuit of thieves, burglars and highwaymen, and so limiting the number of officers who can be used for checking crime because it is difficult to get the public to see the need for more men.

In this case as in the case of department estimates, it probably would be better all around to put all the cards plainly on the table and let the public see what the money and the men are to L. used for. If no more than are actual-ly needed are asked for of either the task of city administration will be made less difficult.

Johns Hopkins students recently conferred an honorary degree on Secre-tary Hoover. He has earned about all degrees in the catalogue, including the degrees in the catalogue, including the degree of sympathy for the Mississippi flood sufferers. For State Bird

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In your columns in a letter from the people recently, some one mentioned a bird as the State bird of California. Why not be leet the Bullock oriole?

This bird is found mainly on the Pacific Coast and in the Southwest, and not so liable to be confused with other State birds, whose distribution is more extended, and is not a game bird, so not liable to be exterminated.

The oriole is also of great seconomic value, destroying enormous quantities of damaging worms, insects, etc., and it does not destroy or interfere with the breeding of other birds. It is one of the most beautiful of birds found in California when plumage, shape, etc., are considered, and the orioles as a rule are well thought of all over the world. MRS. 3. H. WOLFZ.

ARTISANS' EXHIBIT BY EVELYN MeDOWELL In their third exhibit

Grand Palais, Paris, the Best Artisans of France have been showing some of their most skillful work, covering a wide variety of objects and of ma-terials. But apparently neither Models of wooden staircases wound themselves around a cen-tral pole, with no other support, and there was a peculiar con-traption of intricately twisted and curved siender lengths of wood rising into four cone-shaped towers terminating in aharp points, whose use we could not surmise.

But perhaps the most striking not surmise.

But perhaps the most striking object of the exhibit, and one showing great patience and skill, was a massive buffet of carved wood, designed and executed by one man. The central medallion represented in high relief a mounted huntsman in long flowing cape about to hurl his spear at a deer which was conveniently near in a forest. Others, in high and low relief, presented woodland and farm scenes—a stag with branching presented woodland and farm scenes a stag with branching horns, a wild boar, sheep lined up at a haymow, boys "shinny-ing" up the trunk of a tree and others gathering nuts. others gathering nuts, a peasant trying to drive an obstinate pig, a pear flanked on each side by a bird, one of them industriously pecking a hole which showed pecking a noise which shower realistic pock marks. The up-per part of the buffet was up-held on each side by a peevish-looking lion which had the pros-trate body of a lamb between his paws. The artist and artissa who created this monumental piece of furniture was evidently a lover of animal life.

I gathered poppies from the hill A year, or more, ago, and placed them in a flower-bed Where blue-eyed pansies grow; I set each one by rule of thumb As flowers are meant to be, Forgetful of their gypsy blood And love of liberty.

Today I found them near the Today I found them hear street street.

Quite on the gutter's edge.
And one was flaunting its bright bloom
Beyond my neighbor's hedge:
My pansies are conventional.
They scorn the common way.
But poppies love the sunny roads
And the sweet breath of clay.

Of course, you were delighted with Gelfand's Butt-R-Naise as I knew you would be.

You see it is so perfectly delicious to begin with and it is so extremely beneficial too. Let's repeat for the benefit of any of my readers who have not heard—more about the maritorious value of Butt-R-Naise.

It's a finer, more perfect mayonnaise than you have ever used begin from because of the great number of proteins if contains. Then think of the rich, fresh, treamery butter it has in it—sand say yolks as well lemon julice, all of which are most beneficial.

Oh, you are going to adore Gilfand's Butt-R-Naise on your naled—and as a spread for the children sandwiches there's nothing better.

Do get a jar—this very day-for one you use it you will want it always. All good grocers sell it, you have not have it taken by an is stendard. Then or your return your car in so beautiful spiring and have it taken by an is stendard. Then or your return your car is broognit back to you for ferom dust and the devasting sun's rays, cool and is pleasure to ride home in. There is no doubt of it.
